

ADMIRAL BYRD PARTY BACK IN HOMELAND

Congress to Adjourn Next Week, Maybe June 25

TARIFF ACT AND FARM BOARD
LAW ACHIEVEDSECOND SESSION ALMOST CON-TINUOUS SINCE HOOVER
WAS INAUGURATEDLITTLE IN ADDITION TO THE 2 MAJOR ITEMS WAS PASSED

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, June 19.—Claiming the 1930 tariff act and the 1929 federal farm board law as its major achievements, the second session of the 71st congress will adjourn next week, probably Wednesday, to go before the people at the polls.

The session has been almost continuous since President Hoover was inaugurated, and while there was much explosive political discussion,
little in addition to the two major items was passed.

The record shows Mr. Hoover fared only well, at the hands of this congress, although he had a strong majority in the house and at least a theoretical and numerical majority in the senate. He got very nearly what he wanted in the matter of farm relief, and a tariff act which included the flexible tariff clause and omitted the debenture.

His major reverses were suffered in the overwhelming rejection of his veto upon the Spanish war veterans' pension bill and the defeat of his nominee, John J. Parker of North Carolina, to be a justice of the United States supreme court.

Adjournment will find many of the things the president demanded yet pending. This is particularly true of the law enforcement reform bills
drawn by the Wickersham commission and ardently sponsored by the executive. Of these measures only the bill transferring prohibition enforcement to the justice department and the one improving conditions in penal institutions have become laws. The half dozen others changing procedure in the courts are stymied either in the house or senate by the crush of other business.

While there has been much furor
over prohibition, little has been done.
Proposals to repeal the eighteenth amendment have been stilled in committee as well as dry proposals to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller.

The session was characterized by almost unprecedented bitterness which developed between the two houses.
Much important legislation will go down to defeat, after having been fully considered and voted upon, only because the house and senate refused to compromise.

Among the measures ground between the conflicting wills of the two houses are: The Norris Muscle Shoals
bill proposing limited government operation of the Tennessee river power project; the Parker bill regulating the newly developed interstate motor-bus traffic; the Couzens resolution proposing to suspend railroad mergers
temporarily; the Harris bill restricting Mexican immigration; and the three Wagner bills to create government
agencies to meet the unemployment situation.

Even the District of Columbia appropriation bill, carrying funds to run
the city government here, is dead because both houses refused to compromise.

The blame in most of the cases appears to rest upon the house where
a small group of leaders are in command. For instance, the reason generally ascribed for the failure of the house to consider the Wagner bills is
that they were introduced and sponsored by a democrat, although the administration supported them.

The lobby investigation has dominated the stage, shoving a dozen less-sensational inquiries into the background. Chairman Houston of the republicans and Rankin of the democrats were the subjects of critical reports, but the committee is dropping
the most sensational portion of its
inquiry, relating to the lobbying activities and anti-Smith campaign of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church, South.

DENIES IMMUNITY
BISHOP CANNON

Washington, June 19.—(U.P.)—Chairman Caraway of the senate lobby committee declared in a senate speech today that anyone who says the committee granted immunity to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., when it failed to
press its examination of him, "is a willful, common and malicious liar."
Caraway, who admitted his speech
was a breach of parliamentary language, said the same description applies to any one who says he had changed
his position in order to exempt Can-
non. The Arkansas senator offered
to defend his position in the senate
or out of it.

27 PERSONS DEAD
AS RESULT OF A STORM, TIDAL WAVE

London, June 19.—(U.P.)—Twenty-seven persons are dead in the British empire as a result of storms and a tidal wave.
Seven were killed by a spectacular rain and electrical storm which struck southern England with unexpected suddenness. The other 20 were sailors, who were drowned
by a tidal wave which followed an earthquake in New Guinea.

BLOOD LUST
MANIAC BOASTS
OF KILLING 3NEW YORK SLAYER DIRECTS PO-LICE TO BOSTON ROAD, TEL-
LING LOCATION OF 3RD BODY2,000 POLICE DEPLOYED TO COL-LEGE POINT, BUT KILLER
EVASDES CORDON

New York, June 19.—(U.P.)—The murderous maniac, who already has killed
two persons, boasted today that he
had claimed his third victim and directed police to the Boston road where
he said they would find the body of Harold Bridenbach.

His announcement was contained in a letter to the Evening Journal, and
it started police on a search of the Boston road. Fog hampered their
work during the early hours of today.
The maniac, who is searching for
some "important papers," eluded police last night when 2,000 patrolmen
deployed through Queens Borough,
where he had announced he would
kill the third of 16 persons whom he had marked for death.

The letter to the Journal, written
in part in the cabalistic code with which the murderer has filled all his communications, said:

"Where is X8W-9? He is already dead. He is on the Boston road. His name is Harold Bridenbach. Find the woman, old man, and you've got me."

A preliminary check-up failed to reveal any "Harold Bridenbach" in the metropolitan area. While there was
some inclination to believe the maniac
was making an idle boast in his letter, his information regarding the location of his victim's bodies has been
so infallible in the past that police
immediately began their search on the strength of the communication to the Journal.

Already the maniac has killed Noel Sowley and Joseph Moynski. In both cases they were shot as they sat in parked automobiles with young women. The two girls, Catherine May and Betty Ring, are at liberty in $5,000
bail each as material witnesses.

If the man who signs himself as
"3-X, the Man Behind the Gun," really
has committed another murder, he has displayed the same cunning that has characterized his career of crime. It was pointed out that he chose the Boston road for his latest exploit—a
section that is miles away from College Point where police were massed
all last night on the strength of a letter from "3-X," boasting that his next
crime would be in that district.

All night the 2,000 policemen kept vigil in Queens as terrified residents
of the section barred their doors.
Every rule known to experienced detectives was utilized. Policemen, wearing women's coats with high fur collars, sat with drawn pistols in automobiles expecting any moment to be confronted by the maniac.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney believes the man worships at the shrine
of some strange deity that has commanded him to kill whenever he encounters a man and a girl sitting in a parked automobile.

All doubt as to whether Sowley and Moynski were murdered by the same man has been removed by reports of
firearms experts that the bullets taken from the two bodies were fired from the same pistol.

New York, June 19.—The maniacal
slayer, who unflinchingly killed two
men as part of his announced plot to murder 16 persons to retrieve some mysterious "papers," wrote today that he had spared his third victim, "W. R.
V."

It was the second note the slayer
had sent to the New York Journal
today. In the first he had boasted
that he had killed his third victim—
despite vigilant watch by hundreds of detectives in the College Point section
—and that the body would be found on the "Boston road." The first letter
said the dead man's name was "Harold Bridenbach," and added "Find the woman and you've got me."

The second letter today did not mention the previous boast of death but
said W. R. V. has returned the "papers" and $37,000 blackmail money.

BETWEEN RINES
AND YOUNG KINGGOAL IS REPUBLICAN NOMI-NATION FOR POST OF STATE
AUDITORSTATE SENATOR JOHN H. HOU-
GEN IN LEAD FOR LIEUTEN-ANT-GOVERNOR

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(U.P.)—Less than 100 missing precincts today held
the key in the see-saw race between Henry Rines and Stafford King for the republican nomination as state auditor.

With all but 100 of the state's 3,701
precincts reported, the leadership in
the contest apparently rested with Rines by approximately 500 votes. A margin of six votes in each precinct
would give King the nomination. The actual official margin will not be known until the state canvassing
board meets on June 27 to make the state's tabulation of Monday's primary election.

State Senator John H. Hougén of Crookston apparently was safely in the lead in the race for the nomination as lieutenant governor by a margin which may exceed 5,000 votes.
State Senator C. A. Lund of Vinings
was in second place, closely followed
by Reuben Thoren of Stillwater, who
had amassed a lead in the early returns.

The lead for the republican senatorial nomination amassed by Senator
Thomas D. Schall over Governor Theodore Christenson has surpassed 80,- 000 and may rise even 5,000 votes
higher. Ray P. Chase had only a slightly smaller margin over his nearest rival, former Governor J. A. A.
Burnquist, for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

SEARCH DESERT
FOR MINISTERREV. THOMAS HOWARD OF MIN-NESOTA LOST IN ARIZONA WASTES

Tucson, Ariz., June 19.—(U.P.)—The Arizona national guard was expected to join today with posses of miners, cattlemen, ranchers, Indians and veteran peace officers in the desert search for the Rev. Thomas Howard of Minnesota.

Sheriff James W. MacDonald of Pima county said that unless a trace of the minister was found that the guard probably would be ordered out late in the afternoon.

The Rev. Howard, 74, disappeared from the home of his sister here, Miss Florence Howard, on June 9.
A continuous hunt has failed to locate him and all clues to his whereabouts have been followed without success.

Superior's Population
Recorded as 36,091

Superior, Wis., June 19.—(U.P.)—Superior's population was recorded as 36,091 today by Isadore Cohen, census superintendent.

This was a loss of 3,580 since 1920
when the population was 39,671 and
corded since 1910 which a high mark of 40,384 was reached.

New York, June 19.—(U.P.)—Despond-

ment today. Miss Margaret Fisher, Werner's fiancée discovered the body
when she went to the apartment after receiving no answer to a telephone call.

MINNESOTA MARINE
AIR TROPHY WINNER

Setting a new mark for seaplanes, Captain Arthur H. Page, of the U. S. Marines, dashed over a 100-mile course at a 163.4 mile rate and won the Curtiss Marine trophy, awarded annually to the speediest flier of naval planes. The race was held recently at Anacostia,
near Washington, and the Marine Corps pilot was the only representative of his branch of the service among the 24 fliers who competed. He used a Curtiss-Hawk to set the new mark which formerly stood at 162 miles an hour.
Captain Page is a native of Minnesota.

EXPECTED TO RESUME TODAYSTARVATION NO LONGER FACES
GROUP OF 120 SETTLERS IN WILDERNESSCAPT. "WOP" FAY, VETERAN CAN-ADIAN FLIER, BRINGS EMER-GENCY FOOD

Edmonton, Alta., June 19.—(U.P.)—
Flood waters that swept away bridges,
destroyed communications and mar-
ooned 120 settlers in the wilderness
Peace River district on the northern
rim of Alberta receded slowly today.

Railroad service to the flood strick-
en territory between Smith and Mc-Lennan was expected to resume today.
Starvation no longer faced the party
of 120 home-seekers that were marooned at Smith by the floods. Captain "Wop" Fay, veteran Canadian
flier, safely traversed the wilderness
area with an emergency load of food.

The provisions were immediately
distributed to the men, women and
children who left their homes in southern Canada to seek their fortune in the northern forests.

Meager accounts of flood damage pointed to one of the worst storms in
years, but communication was still too
difficult to make a detailed report possible.

STANLEY S. STARRING DIES IN PRISONMINNEAPOLIS REALTOR WAS SERVING TERM FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Stillwater, Minn., June 19.—(U.P.)— Less than two weeks after he was denied parole by the state pardon board, Stanley S. Starring, Minneapolis realtor serving a term for embezzlement died suddenly in Stillwater penitentiary today.

Starring was sentenced to a term of
one to ten years on November 8, 1928
after he admitted irregularities in the Starring Realty Co., which sent it into the hands of a receiver with liabilities exceeding assets by nearly $300,- 000.

Starring was also found to have jugged
accounts of the Church of the Redeemer of which he was treasurer.
He pleaded guilty immediately after
the irregularity in his accounts was discovered.

Death was due to an attack of apoplexy.

CROP OUTLOOK IN STATE LESS FAVORABLE

St. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(U.P.)—The
crop outlook was less favorable in Minnesota on June 15 than on the first
of the month the Minnesota Department of Agriculture reported today.
Too much rain in the southeastern
portion of the state and too little rain
and high winds in the west central
and north central districts, have harmed crops, the report said.

When the state as a whole is considered soil and weather conditions
were found to be fair to good with
growth and progress of small grains
fairly satisfactory.

Corn and winter wheat conditions
were found to be spotty ranging from unsatisfactory to quite good. Lack moisture has hampered growth of hay, the department said.

$10,000,000 SUIT IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Los Angeles, June 19.—(U.P.)—The $10,000,000 suit brought against E. L.
Doheny and the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Company by Frank H. Kindel and other stockholders of the organization has been settled out of court.

The settlement was revealed when the case was called for trial today
and attorneys for each side told Federal Judge George Cosgrave that an agreement "satisfactory to all" was reached.

The jurist immediately dismissed the case.

FALSE ARREST
CHARGES DISMISSED

Miami, Fla., June 19.—(U.P.)—False arrest charges brought by Alphonse
"Scarface" Capone, Chicago against S.
D. McCreary, director of public safety,
Miami, were dismissed today by Justices of the Peace W. L. Newcomb.

35 MEN KILLED
IN COAL MINE
AS GAS EXPLODES

Moscow, June 19.—(U.P.)—Thirty-five men were killed and many others were injured seriously when gas exploded in a coal mine at Artomovsk, advices received here said today. The accident occurred yesterday, the reports said.
An official Soviet commission was designated to investigate the explosion, and began its work immediately.

EXTERMINATION
CHICAGO'S AIMIMMEDIATE CLEAN-UP OF THE
POLICE DEPARTMENT OF
POLICE COMMISSIONER JOHN
H. ALCOCK

Chicago, June 19.—(U.P.)—Complete
extermination of gangsters and an immediate clean-up of the police department, were the tasks undertaken today by acting Police Commissioner
John H. Alcock, the "Iron Man."

Alcock was given full charge of the department last night by Mayor William Hale Thompson and a new start
was made toward solving the murder
of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune
reporter, and ridding the city of criminals.

The mayor told the acting commissioner:

"Your first job is to capture every gangster in Chicago. Your second is to get the evidence which will send
every one of them either to the penitentiary or to the electric chair. You have a free hand. You will not be interfered with."

Alcock assured the mayor that
"There'll be police work done, and no
excuses from shirkers."

The definite commissioning of Al-
cock to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Commissioner William
R. Russell under fire, had appended
to it a demand from Mayor Thompson
for "quick results, not reports of progress."

Syndney, N. S. W., June 19.—An apparent parallel to the Alfred Lingle
case of Chicago occupied the attention of Sydney police today.

Murray Hullett, a reporter on the newspaper Sydney Truth, has been
missing since Tuesday, and police said
they feared he had been kidnapped because of an article he wrote about
Sydney's gangsters a fortnight ago.

Hullett was the victim of an attack
by four gangsters last Saturday in Surrey Hills, a suburb where gangsters gather.

I. C. C. IN STATEMENT
ON PROPOSED MERGER
OF G. N. AND N. P.

Washington, June 19.—(U.P.)—The I.
C. C. cannot undertake to suspend or postpone the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads in anticipation of any further legislation by congress, Chairman Frank McManamy informed the Minnesota congressional delegation today.
McManamy wrote the delegation in response to a request to hold the merger application in abeyance until congress reconvenes next December.
The chairman said that in order to hold up the merger, the state of Minnesota should "file an appropriate petition and serve copies on all parties
so that the matter may be properly
before us."

Newark, N. J., June 19.—(U.P.)—With only 12 districts missing the lead of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in the three-cornered primary for the republican senatorial nomination from New Jersey went definitely over 300,- 000 today.

The unofficial record showed: Morrow
420,131; Congressman Franklin W.
Fort, 116,966 and former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, 48,135, the vote
for Joseph Kelly, fourth candidate, was negligible.

a geologist in the Byrd expedition.

New York, June 19.—Rear Admiral
Richard Evelyn Byrd and his party
of Antarctic explorers who for two
years have been following the sea and
ice lanes far from civilization, returned
today to their homeland.

A procession of 77 ships escorted them up New York harbor. Thousands
of people crowded the Battery, Broadway and City Hall Park to acclaim
them.

In high spirits the double handful of men whose history will record as the first to map the Antarctic ice cap
and to explore the frozen regions of
the south by air, fairly blinked at the towers of Manhattan; the swarming traffic of the harbor; the crowded streets; the roaring subways; and all
the accoutrements of civilization so
long denied them, except for the brief
foretaste in Australia.

Bernat Balchen, who piloted Byrd's
plane in the major explorations; Paul Sipple, the Boy Scout member of the expedition; and all the others were in full uniform as they climbed over the
sides of their two ships, the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York into
the midst of the mayor's committee
headed by Grover A. Whalen.

The two-starred flag of a rear admiral was run up from the Macom, the first time it had been flown in America
for Admiral Byrd, who was but a commander when he left two years ago.

"It's good to be back," said Byrd
as he shook hands with Whalen and
all the others. "It's fine to be back."
Someone took him to the radio installed on the cutter and asked him
to say something.

"It's good to be back," he said.

Admiral Byrd's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Bolling Byrd, his brothers, former Governor Harry Byrd of Virginia and
Captain Thomas Byrd, his nephew,
Harry Byrd, Jr., two nieces, Miss
Westwood Byrd and Miss Margaret
Byrd, and the wife of Gov. Byrd, represented the Byrd family aboard the welcoming cutter. Byrd's wife had gone down the bay to greet him yesterday in advance.

Byrd was nowhere in sight when the Macom came alongside the City of New York. Thomas Mulroy and a group of other members of the party
stood upon the bridge and were the first to have greetings.

Then as the welcoming committee
scanned the decks for Byrd the admiral slowly came out of the commander's cabin. He was dressed in the white uniform of an admiral in
tropical service, black shoulder straps
and gold buttons setting off the solid
white of the uniform.

"There he is," cried those aboard the Macom.

Byrd, however, turned around deliberately and slowly turned the key
in his cabin door.

Then he came forward, standing behind his men who were at that time
grouped over the rails. He raised his hands high above his head and shook
them toward his mother. He smiled a little and waved to others. His face was weather beaten. There was a bit more gray in his hair than there was two years ago.

Suddenly there was a commotion
down the deck of the City of New York and up rolled Bernat Balchen,
dressed in an unpressed suit of blue,
a black string tie, a great cap making
a futile attempt to restrain his mat
of blonde hair, and a green handkerchief protruding from his coat pocket.

He carried a pair of skis which he thumped upon the deck.

Balchen for the moment stole the show. Everyone cheered for him.
Someone called him across the deck.
He shrugged passageways and went scrambling over the gear.

Groven Whalen climbed aboard the City of New York and the handshaking began. Byrd said little except to repeat over and over again his pleasure at being home.

Then all were transferred to the Macom and the trip up the bay began,
amid a bedlam of screaming whistles.
All the while Byrd's mother—his wife was not aboard the Macom—waited on the cutter's stern.

"Where's my child," she queried,
like a mother who wants to keep track
of what a small boy is doing.
The Macom was well on its way
toward the battery when Mrs. Byrd, Governor Byrd and the family gathered in the cabin below decks

temporarily; the Harris bill restricting Mexican immigration; and the three
Wagner bills to create government
agencies to meet the unemployment
situation.Even the District of Columbia appropriation bill, carrying funds to run
the city government here, is dead because both houses refused to compromise.The blame in most of the cases appears to rest upon the house, where
a small group of leaders are in command. For instance, the reason gen-
house to consider the Wagner bills is
that they were introduced and sponsored by a democrat, although the administration supported them.The lobby investigation has dominated the stage, shoving a dozen lesser senatorial inquiries into the background. Chairman Houston of the republicans and Raskob of the democrats were the subjects of critical reports, but the committee is dropping
inquiry, relating to the lobbying activities and anti-Smith campaign of
Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Church, South.DENIES IMMUNITY
BISHOP CANNONWashington, June 19.—(U.P.)—Chairman Caraway of the senate lobby committee declared in a senate speech to-
day that anyone who says the committee granted immunity to Bishop
James Cannon, Jr., when it failed to
press its examination of him, "is a
willful, common and malicious liar."
Caraway, who admitted his speech
was a breach of parliamentary language, said the same description applies to any one who says he had changed
his position in order to exempt Can-
non. The Arkansas senator offered
to defend his position in the senate
or out of it.27 PERSONS DEAD

MANIAC BOASTS
OF KILLING 3NEW YORK SLAYER DIRECTS PO-
LEGE POINT, BUT KILLER
EVASDES CORDONNew York, June 19.—(U.P.)—The murderous maniac, who already has killed
rected police to the Boston road where
he said they would find the body of Harold Bridenbach.His announcement was contained in a letter to the Evening Journal, and
it started police on a search of the
work during the early hours of today.
The maniac, who is searching for
some "important papers," eluded police last night when 2,000 patrolmen
deployed through Queens Borough,
where he had announced he would
kill the third of 16 persons whom he had marked for death.The letter to the Journal, written
in part in the cabalistic code with
which the murderer has filled all his communications, said:"Where is X8W-9? He is already dead. He is on the Boston road. His
name is Harold Bridenbach. Find the woman, old man, and you've got me."A preliminary check-up failed to reveal any "Harold Bridenbach" in the metropolitan area. While there was
some inclination to believe the maniac
was making an idle boast in his letter, his information regarding the location of his victim's bodies has been
so infallible in the past that police
strength of the communication to the Journal.Already the maniac has killed Noel Sowley and Joseph Moynzski. In both cases they were shot as they sat in parked automobiles with young women. The two girls, Catherine May
and Betty Ring, are at liberty in $5,000
bail each as material witnesses."If the man who signs himself as
"3-X, The Man Behind the Gun," really
has committed another murder, he has
characterized his career of crime. It
was pointed out that he chose the Boston road for his latest exploit—a
section that is miles away from Col-
all last night on the strength of a letter from "3-X," boasting that his next
crime would be in that district.All night the 2,000 policemen kept
vigil in Queens as terrified residents
of the section barred their doors.
Every ruse known to experienced detective was utilized. Policemen, wearing women's coats with high fur collars, sat with drawn pistols in automobiles expecting any moment to be confronted by the maniac.Police Commissioner Mulrooney believes the man worships at the shrine
of some strange deity that has commanded him to kill whenever he encounters a man and a girl sitting in a parked automobile.All doubt as to whether Sowley and Moynzski were murdered by the same
man has been removed by reports of
firearms experts that the bullets taken from the two bodies were fired from the same pistol.New York, June 19.—The maniacal
slayer, who unflinchingly killed two
murder 16 persons to retrieve some
mysterious "papers," wrote today that
he had spared his third victim, "W. R.
V."It was the second note the slayer
had sent to the New York Journal
today. In the first he had boasted
that he had killed his third victim—
despite vigilant watch by hundreds of
detectives in the College Point section
—and that the body would be found
on the "Boston road." The first letter
said the dead man's name was "Har-
old Bridenbach," and added "Find the woman and you've got me."The second letter today did not mention the previous boast of death but
said W. R. V. has returned the "papers" and $37,000 blackmail money.Flood Waters Recede in Peace River Area

AUDITORSTATE SENATOR JOHN H. HOU-

ANT-GOVERNORSt. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(U.P.)—Less than 100 missing precincts today held
the key in the see-saw race between Henry Rines and Stafford King for the republican nomination as state
auditor.With all but 100 of the state's 3,701
precincts reported, the leadership in
the contest apparently rested with Rines by approximately 500 votes. A
margin of six votes in each precinct
actual official margin will not be
known until the state canvassing
board meets on June 27 to make the
election.State Senator John H. Hougén of Crookston apparently was safely in
the lead in the race for the nomination as lieutenant governor by a margin which may exceed 5,000 votes.
State Senator C. A. Lund of Vining
was in second place, closely followed
by Reuben Thoren of Stillwater, who
had amassed a lead in the early returns.The lead for the republican sena-
Thomas D. Schall over Governor Theodore Christianson has surpassed 80-000 and may rise even 5,000 votes
higher. Ray P. Chase had only a slightly smaller margin over his nearest rival, former Governor J. A. A.
Burnquist, for the republican gubernatorial nomination.SEARCH DESERT

Flood waters that swept away bridges,
destroyed communications and mar-
ooned 120 settlers in the wilderness
Peace River district on the northern
rim of Alberta receded slowly today.
Railroad service to the flood strick-
en territory between Smith and Mc-
Lennan was expected to resume today.
of 120 home-seekers that were mar-
ooned at Smith by the floods. Captain "Wop" Fay, veteran Canadian
flier, safely traversed the wilderness
area with an emergency load of food.
children who left their homes in southern Canada to seek their fortune in the northern forests.Meager accounts of flood damage
pointed to one of the worst storms in
years, but communication was still too
difficult to make a detailed report pos-

after he admitted irregularities in the Staring Realty Co., which sent it into
the hands of a receiver with liabili-
ties exceeding assets by nearly $300,- 000.Staring was also found to have jugged
accounts of the Church of the Redeemer of which he was treasurer.
He pleaded guilty immediately after
the irregularity in his accounts was discovered.Death was due to an attack of apoplexy.CROP OUTLOOK IN STATE LESS FAVORABLESt. Paul, Minn., June 19.—(U.P.)—The
crop outlook was less favorable in Minnesota on June 15 than on the first
of the month the Minnesota Department of Agriculture reported today.Too much rain in the southeastern
portion of the state and too little rain
and north central districts, have harmful crops, the report said.When the state as a whole is considered soil and weather conditions
growth and progress of small grains
fairly satisfactory.Corn and winter wheat conditions
were found to be spotty ranging from
unsatisfactory to quite good. Lack
moisture has hampered growth of hay, the department said.$10,000,000 SUIT IS

OF GANGSTERS
POLICE COMMISSIONER JOHN
H. ALCOCKChicago, June 19.—(U.P.)—Complete
extermination of gangsters and an immediate clean-up of the police department, were the tasks undertaken to-
day by acting Police Commissioner
John H. Alcock, the "iron man."
Alcock was given full charge of the
department last night by Mayor William Hale Thompson and a new start
was made toward solving the murder
of Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune
reporter, and ridding the city of criminals.The mayor told the acting commissioner:"Your first job is to capture every gangster in Chicago. Your second is
to get the evidence which will send
every one of them either to the penitentiary or to the electric chair. You
have a free hand. You will not be interfered with."Alcock assured the mayor that
"There'll be police work done, and no
excuses from shirkers."The definite commissioning of Alcock to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Commissioner William
R. Russell under fire, had appended
to it a demand from Mayor Thompson
for "quick results, not reports of progress."Sydney, N. S. W., June 19.—An apparent parallel to the Alfred Lingle
case of Chicago occupied the attention of Sydney police today.Murray Hullett, a reporter on the newspaper Sydney Truth, has been
missing since Tuesday, and police said
they feared he had been kidnapped be-
cause of an article he wrote about
Sydney's gangsters a fortnight ago.
Hullett was the victim of an attack
by four gangsters last Saturday in

New York, June 19.—Rear Admiral
Richard Evelyn Byrd and his party
of Antarctic explorers who for two
years have been following the sea and
ice lanes far from civilization, returned
today to their homeland.A procession of 77 ships escorted
them up New York harbor. Thousands
of people crowded the Battery, Broad-
way and City Hall Park to acclaim
them.In high spirits the double handful of men whom history will record as
the first to map the Antarctic ice cap
and to explore the frozen regions of
the south by air, fairly blinked at the
towers of Manhattan; the crowded
streets; the roaring subways; and all
the accoutrements of civilization so
long denied them, except for the brief
foretaste in Australia.Bernt Balchen, who piloted Byrd's
plane in the major explorations; Paul Siple, the Boy Scout member of the expedition; and all the others were in
full uniform as they climbed over the
sides of their two ships, the Eleanor Bolling and the City of New York into
the midst of the mayor's committee
headed by Grover A. Whalen.The two-starred flag of a rear admiral was run up from the Macon, the first time it had been flown in America
for Admiral Byrd, who was but a
commander when he left two years
ago."It's good to be back," said Byrd
as he shook hands with Whalen and
all the others. "It's fine to be back."
Someone took him to the radio in-
to say something.

"It's good to be back," he said.

Admiral Byrd's mother, Mrs. Elea-
Captain Thomas Byrd, his nephew;
Westwood Byrd and Miss Margaret
Byrd, and the wife of Gov. Byrd, represented the Byrd family aboard the
welcoming cutter. Byrd's wife had
gone down the bay to greet him yesterday in advance.Byrd was nowhere in sight when the Macon came alongside the City
of New York. Thomas Mulroy and a
group of other members of the party
stood upon the bridge and were the first to hear greetings.Then as the welcoming committee
scanned the decks for Byrd the admiral slowly came out of the commander's cabin. He was dressed in
the white uniform of an admiral in
tropical service, black shoulder straps
and gold buttons setting off the solid white of the uniform."There he is," cried those aboard the Macon.Byrd, however, turned around deliberately and slowly turned the key
in his cabin door.Then he came forward, standing behind his men who were at that time
hands high above his head and shook
them toward his mother. He smiled a little and bowed to others. His face was tawdry beaten. There was a bit more grey in his hair than there was two years ago.Suddenly there was a commotion
down the deck of the City of New York and up rolled Bernt Balchen,
dressed in an unpressed suit of blue,
a black string tie, a great cap making
a futile attempt to restrain his mat
of blonde hair, and a green handkerchief protruding from his coat pocket.He carried a pair of skis which he thumped upon the deck.Balchen for the moment stole the show. Everyone cheered for him.
Someone called him across the deck.
He shrugged passageways and went scrambling over the gear.Groven Whalen climbed aboard the City of New York and the handshak-
repeat over and over again his pleasure at being home.Then all were transferred to the Macon and the trip up the bay began,
amid a bedlam of screaming whistles.
All the while Byrd's mother—his wife was not aboard the Macon—
waited on the cutter's stern."Where's my child," she queried,
like a mother who wants to keep track
of what a small boy is doing.The Macon was well on its way
toward the battery when Mrs. Byrd, Governor Byrd and the family gathered in the cabin below decks and the admiral turned from his welcome
for ten minutes of a family reunion.
No others were present.As the Macon neared the battery, Byrd came to the bridge with his mother on his arm and there they

Peculiar Belief About Monstrosities in Erin
It is affirmed that one does not have to go to equatorial Africa to hunt mysterious lake-dwelling monsters—such monstrosities are talked of in Ireland, an Armagh correspondent writes: "I know nothing of Central Africa, but I know Ireland very well, and there I have encountered the belief in monsters, which are usually described as snakes of enormous size, living in the depths of lakes in various remote places of the island. It is a curious belief, because there are, as is well known, no snakes in Ireland. In the wild western parts of the country, from north to south, this belief exists. The dwelling place of the monster is usually some small, dark, mountain lake, lying under overhanging cliffs, and far from human dwellings. One such I can mention by name. It is known as the 'Hag's lake,' and is in a wild spot called the 'Hag's Glen,' lying under the crags of Carratua, in Kerry, on the northern side of that mountain. A youth who lived in the poor hamlet nearest to this spot assured me that the great 'serpent' which lived in that lake was well known to exist. I asked him if he had seen it. He said 'No,' but his grandmother had seen it very early one morning when she was out on the mountain looking for a beast which had strayed. 'We don't go near the lake in the dark,' he added."—Montreal Family Herald.

SIX CYLINDER SENTENCES

O-O
A contented soul is rich, regardless of his "roll."
Blessed is the man who is able to live up to his own epitaph.
A flask on the hip has brought many a lie to the lip.
A woman who can wash dishes and smile the while is an artist.
I have never yet heard that a crown could drown a trouble.
Do not become a "greenhorn" no man deserves a 100 per cent appreciation.

No Need for Him to Worry
"A rich man," said H. H. H., the sage of Chinatown, "need never be haughty. He will always have servants eager to assume manners of condescending importance."—Washington Star.

Complicated
Small Bobby was having difficulty in mastering the use of the word "complicated." He had used it incorrectly several times, and it seemed to weigh on his mind. One morning at breakfast he remarked thoughtfully: "Mother, an egg hatches into a chicken and the chicken lays an egg, and I eat the egg. That's 'complicated,' isn't it?"

Kaiser as a Composer
Strauss, the great German musician, was once at a dinner in Berlin at which a guest ridiculed the musical composition of the kaiser. Strauss listened quietly, then observed: "It's not fair, and scarcely wise, to make fun of the musical compositions of the 'all highest.' You never know who composed them."

Weaknesses of the Primary System

ANOTHER primary election has passed into history in Minnesota, says the Duluth News Tribune, again bringing out the many weaknesses of the primary election system, which was adopted frankly as an experiment to escape the many evils that had grown up under the old convention and caucus method.

Those evils were real, and needed to be corrected. Political corruption had reared its ugly head in Minnesota, and the feeling against it became so strong that the pendulum of public sentiment swung wide the other way, so that this state went further than any other in wiping out party lines.

Minnesota not only adopted the primary election system, but also the principle of non-partisanship in office for city, county, judicial and even state legislative offices. Parties are submerged and the individual candidate is elevated. Anyone who has the filing fee can declare himself a candidate at the primaries.

This may be all right. Public office should be open to all alike, leaving it for the voters to decide which is best fitted for the office sought. But some of the results raise a big question.

Nonpartisan ballots for county offices seem to work out as well as any other system. The individual is responsible for the conduct of his office. But to put candidates for the state legislature on the ballot without party designation is a different matter.

The legislature takes mass action on matters affecting the people, and under the present system when affairs are mismanaged or the people are dissatisfied there is neither individual nor party responsibility. The people cannot place responsibility, nor can they demand of any political party the reforms or the legislation they desire.

Another weakness of the state primary system is that it does not arouse interest or enthusiasm on the part of the voters. That is due to a lack of competition, which disappeared with party lines. The primary had little to do with political issues, and those are what draw out the vote.

At any rate, many voters in Minnesota are increasingly dissatisfied with the primary system and with the system of electing candidates to the state senate and house of representatives without party designation. The pendulum is swinging back the other way.

More Walking Required

MANY old-timers of Brainerd are wondering why they are losing their pep and why time hangs heavily on their hands and why their appetites are languishing.

What's needed is more exercise of a moderate kind and the best you can get is just plain walking. We know one man in town who was losing weight, whose health was fading. Doctors advised him to walk and now he has a regular program of a five mile walk before breakfast. He does not deviate a hair's breadth from this program. He takes that walk as regularly as he does his shaving, getting his mail or mowing the lawn.

Men of today get sedentary habits. They do not get enough outside air and exercise. A man tied down to a desk for eight hours or more and who takes his recreation by driving a car is not getting any exercise.

Start the walking habit. Do not attempt any five miles at the start, but as you become accustomed to the new exercise increase your mileage gradually until you get to a standard figure.

Golf is a good exercise, but no man we know of plays a game daily. There are miles and miles of fine territory to be explored in your walks. Time yourself so that you do not exceed the limit you have set.

With this walking program in effect you will reduce your girth, strengthen your legs, harden your muscles, help your lungs by letting them expand in fresh air.

We have some juvenile hiking clubs in town. We also have some hikers who start out nobly and return in the first car giving them a lift. Walking requires a certain determination to resist the siren call of an automobile. It can be done when you realize that good health is your goal. After you have done your daily walking stunt, then do your driving to your heart's content.

Well Earned Pensions

AN increase in pensions for Spanish-American war veterans has been secured largely through the efforts of Congressman Harold Knutson of this sixth district and it is appreciated by the veterans as well as their dependents.

The Spanish-American war was no lengthy one, but the principle involved was a noble one and the men in service when injured or laid low with typhoid and other diseases suffered as much as any soldiers in any other war. Sanitation, surgery, nursing, general care of wounded men, had not made as great strides as during the World War. More died of disease than from bullets in the Spanish-American war.

There is a Spanish-American war veterans post in Brainerd and some of these men will receive pension increases. Congressman Harold Knutson is anxious to aid all veterans eligible to secure increases and will take up correspondence regarding their claims.

New Type of Roof

For the first time in the United States the Lamella type roof first patented in Holland has been employed. Clarence Sleeper of Haverhill township near Rochester, who is constructing a new dairy barn on his farm, is installing the roof.

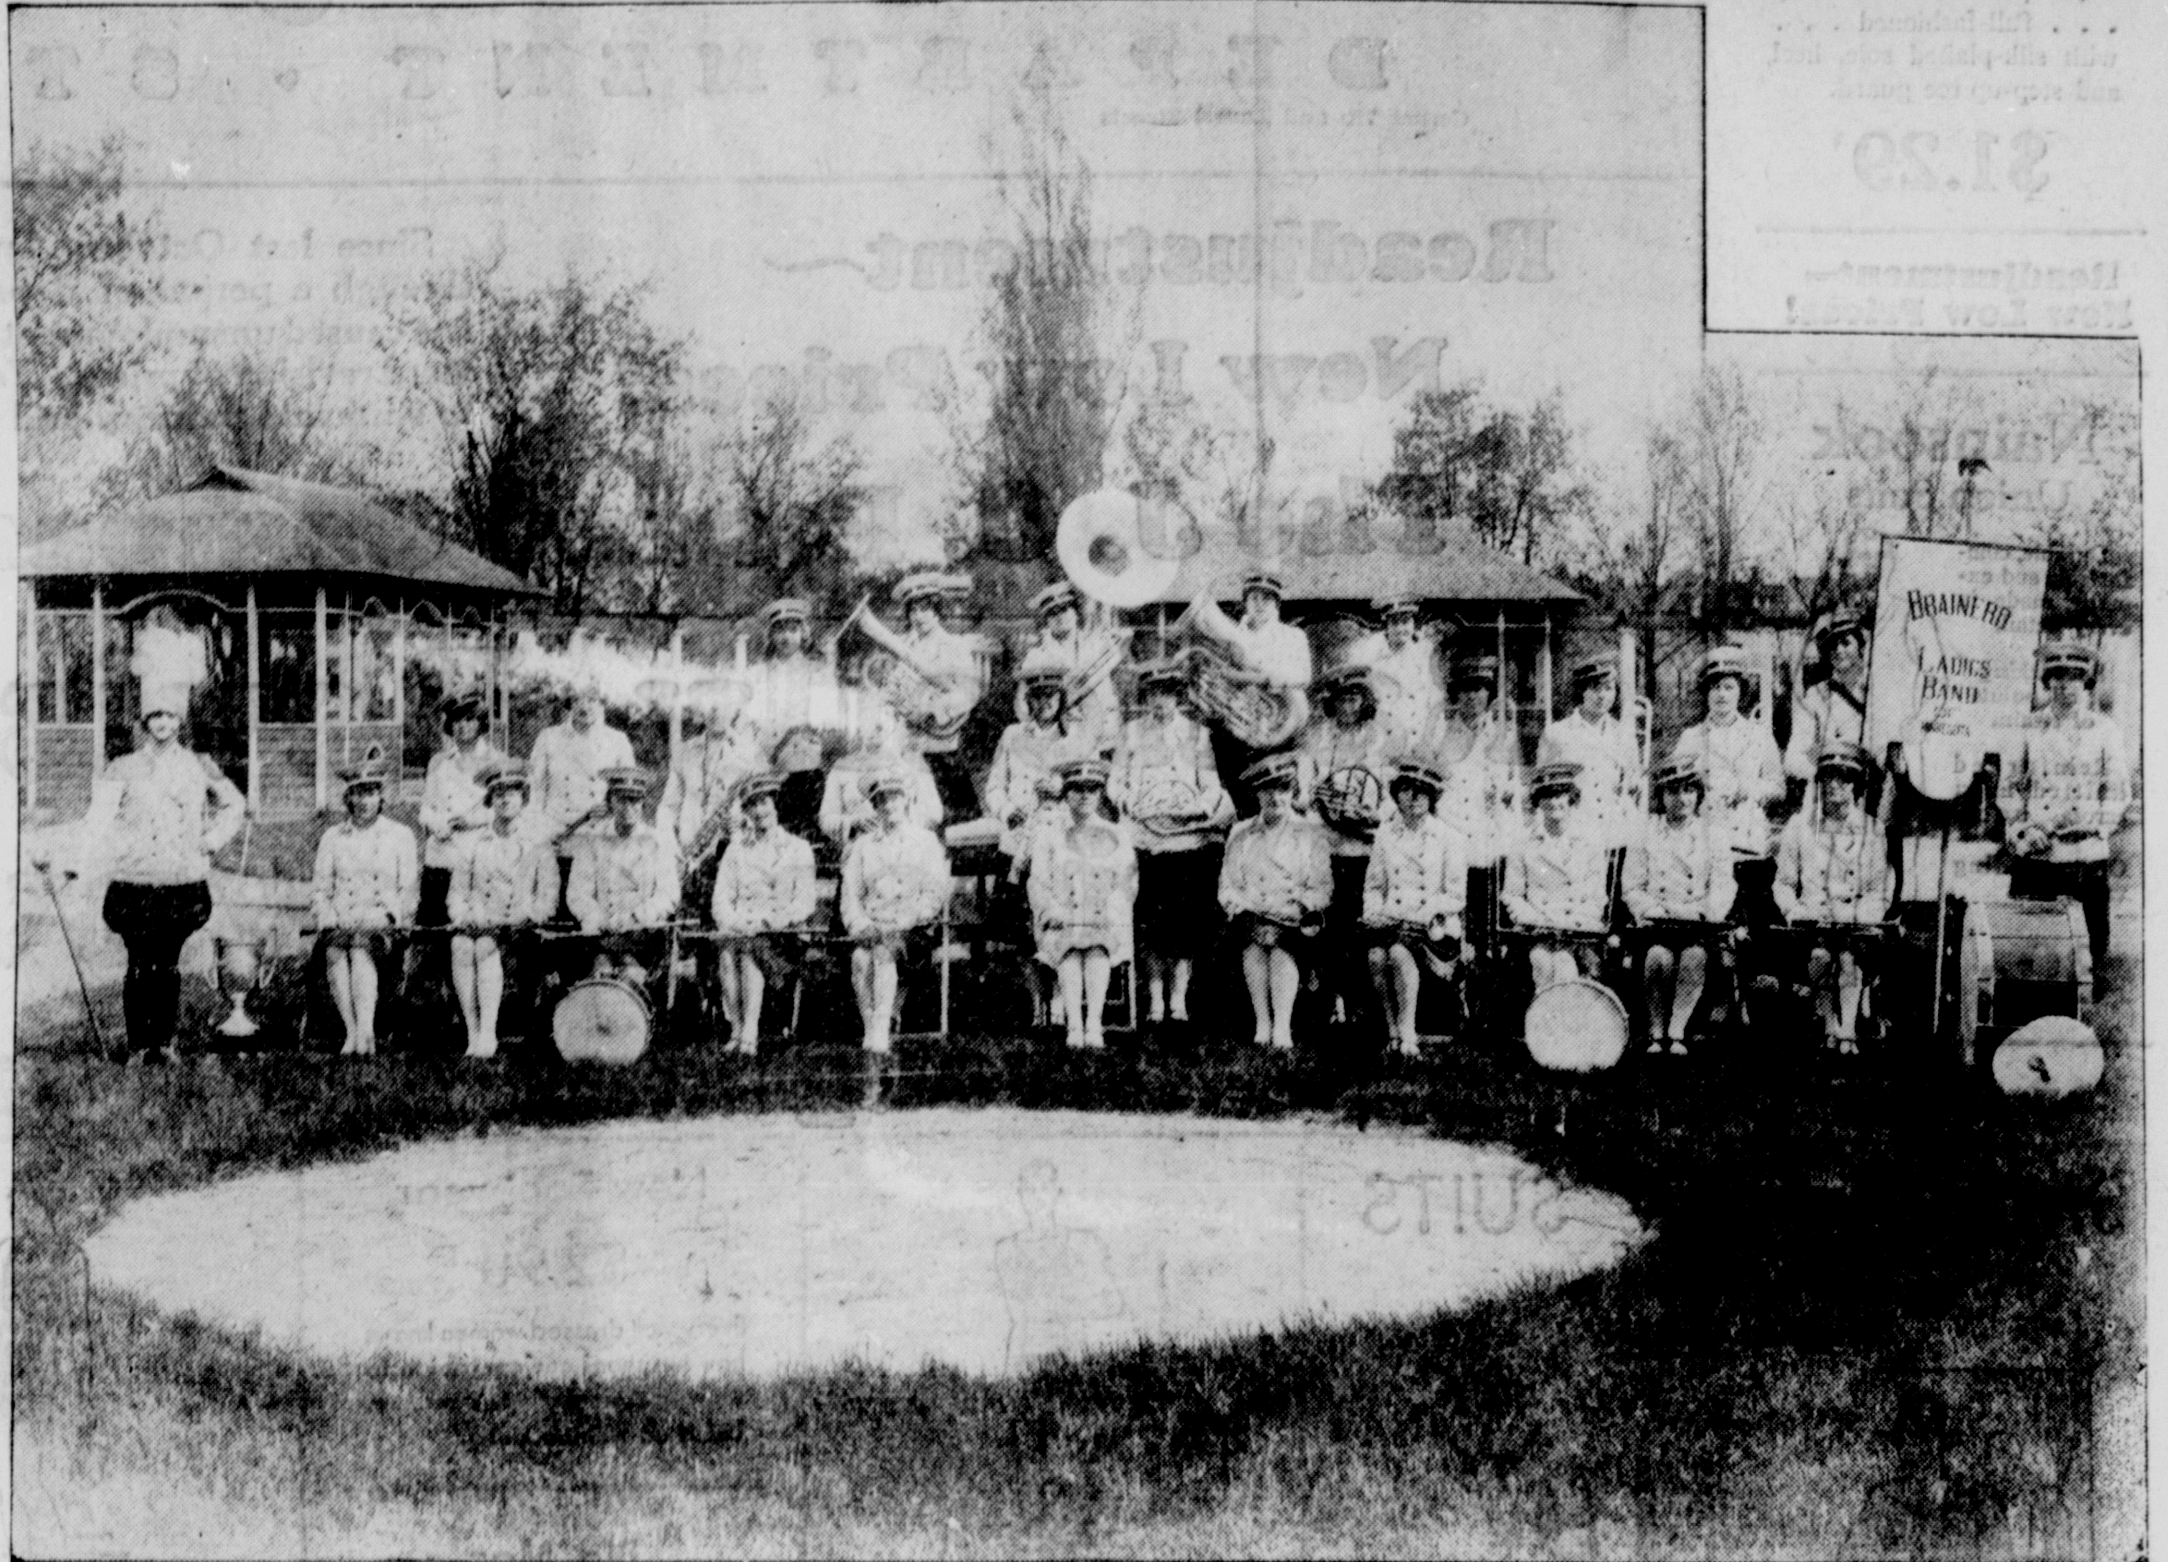

Eliminating the old type of bracing and pillars, the new type of roof is composed of two by eights approximately eight feet long bolted in diamond shaped panels. Agricultural engineers declare the roof is neat and durable and provides extra room.

Sleeper's barn is 36 by 80. The second story will be used for storing hay and grain and consists of one large room with the elimination of bracing and posts.

AN entry list of more than 150 is expected for the annual tournament of the Southern Minnesota Golf association at Rochester on June 23, 24 and 25, according to W. P. Gardner, secretary. Entry lists closed June 19.

A. G. MERENESS, director of organization for the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, told Washington county farmers at their annual picnic at White Bear Lake, Minn., that the farmer's dollar is only worth 86 cents today.

Brainerd Ladies Band to Represent City and Lake Region at State Band Contest at St. Paul Friday and Saturday

St. Paul Friday and Saturday. The band has a new set of snappy uniforms and will take part in the parade of 40 bands at 5:30 P. M. tomorrow, with 1,000 musicians participating besides numerous floats.

This organization placed second in the musical contest in Class C last year and was awarded a handsome silver cup. The band has practiced faithfully all winter in anticipation of keen competition in this class this year and hopes to represent Brainerd in a worthy manner and if possible to add further laurels to the band's accomplishments.

The lady musicians leave by bus at 7 A. M. tomorrow morning.

No People of History

Unfamiliar With Rings

Rings were not always used to decorate the fingers, and in suitable forms at different times, they were worn as anklets, armlets and necklaces; on the toes and fingers; in the ears and nose, writes Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the New Standard dictionary. To this day, the nose-ring, the ear-ring, and the toe-ring are worn in Far Eastern lands. Porcelain finger-rings were worn by the poorer class of Egyptians. Such as have been preserved in the British museum, London, are of extreme beauty. Some are of blue porcelain with a band of not more than one-eighth of an inch in thickness, yet small as they are they bear two impressions.

From Egypt and the East rings were introduced to Greece, where they were worn by all free men as insignia of office or for ornament. From the Greeks the Romans adopted the custom, but by them rings were worn more as luxuries, and became very common. To so great an excess did the Romans carry this practice that they had summer rings and winter rings, the former being heavier and thicker than the latter. Roman gems were sought and highly valued for mystic virtues attributed to them.

Here's Another Stab at Age of "Mother Earth"

One of the most remarkable discoveries of recent years is the radio-active metal, uranium, which gradually changes into lead, says London Tit-Bits. The rate at which this process is carried out is well known, and it is invariable. By taking rocks which contain both uranium and lead and finding the proportion of each metal now existing in them, the length of time necessary to bring about the present state of affairs is not difficult to calculate. Such a calculation shows that the earth must have been solid not far short of two thousand million years ago.

The paths of the earth around the sun and the moon around the earth are not what they were originally. Science can reconstruct them and discover the time needed to give them their present shapes.

All of these methods show that the age of the earth must be more than one thousand million years and less than four thousand million years. We shall, then, not be far wrong if we fix the earth's birthday at about two thousand million years ago.

At any rate, many voters in Minnesota are increasingly dissatisfied with the primary system and with the system of electing candidates to the state senate and house of representatives without party designation. The pendulum is swinging back the other way.

More Walking Required

MANY old-timers of Brainerd are wondering why they are losing their pep and why time hangs heavily on their hands and why their appetites are languishing.

What's needed is more exercise of a moderate kind and the best you can get is just plain walking. We know one man in town who was losing weight, whose health was fading. Doctors advised him to walk and now he has a regular program of a five mile walk before breakfast. He does not deviate a hair's breadth from this program. He takes that walk as regularly as he does his shaving, getting his mail or mowing the lawn.

Men of today get sedentary habits. They do not get enough outside air and exercise. A man tied down to a desk for eight hours or more and who takes his recreation by driving a car is not getting any exercise.

Start the walking habit. Do not attempt any five miles at the start, but as you become accustomed to the new exercise increase your mileage gradually until you get to a standard figure.

Golf is a good exercise, but no man we know of plays a game daily. There are miles and miles of fine territory to be explored in your walks. Time yourself so that you do not exceed the limit you have set.

With this walking program in effect you will reduce your girth, strengthen your legs, harden your muscles, help your lungs by letting them expand in fresh air.

We have some juvenile hiking clubs in town. We also have some hikers who start out nobly and return in the first car giving them a lift. Walking requires a certain determination to resist the siren call of an automobile. It can be done when you realize that good health is your goal. After you have done your daily walking stunt, then do your driving to your heart's content.

Well Earned Pensions

AN increase in pensions for Spanish-American war veterans has been secured largely through the efforts of Congressman Harold Knutson of this sixth district and it is appreciated by the veterans as well as their dependents.

The Spanish-American war was no lengthy one, but the principle involved was a noble one and the men in service when injured or laid low with typhoid and other diseases suffered as much as any soldiers in any other war. Sanitation, surgery, nursing, general care of wounded men, had not made as great strides as during the World War. More died of disease than from bullets in the Spanish-American war.

There is a Spanish-American war veterans post in Brainerd and some of these men will receive pension increases. Congressman Harold Knutson is anxious to aid all veterans eligible to secure increases and will take up correspondence regarding their claims.

New Type of Roof

For the first time in the United States the Lamella type roof first patented in Holland has been employed. Clarence Sleeper of Haverhill township near Rochester, who is constructing a new dairy barn on his farm, is installing the roof.

Eliminating the old type of bracing and pillars, the new type of roof is composed of two by eights approximately eight feet long bolted in diamond shaped panels. Agricultural engineers declare the roof is neat and durable and provides extra room.

Sleeper's barn is 36 by 80. The second story will be used for storing hay and grain and consists of one large room with the elimination of bracing and posts.

An entry list of more than 150 is expected for the annual tournament of the Southern Minnesota Golf association at Rochester on June 23, 24 and 25, according to W. P. Gardner, secretary. Entry lists closed June 19.

A. G. MERENESS, director of organization for the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, told Washington county farmers at their annual picnic at White Bear Lake, Minn., that the farmer's dollar is only worth 86 cents today.

St. Paul Friday and Saturday. The band has a new set of snappy uniforms and will take part in the parade of 40 bands at 5:30 P. M. tomorrow, with 1,100 musicians participating besides numerous floats.

This organization placed second in the musical contest in Class C last year and was awarded a handsome silver cup. The band has practiced faithfully all winter in anticipation of keen competition in this class this year and hopes to represent Brainerd in a worthy manner and if possible to add further laurels to the band's accomplishments.

No People of History Unfamiliar With Rings

Rings were not always used to decorate the fingers, and in suitable forms at different times, they were worn as anklets, armlets and necklaces; on the toes and fingers; in the ears and nose, writes Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the New Standard dictionary. To this day, the nose ring, the ear-ring, and the toe-ring are worn in Far Eastern lands. Porcelain finger-rings were worn by the poorer class of Egyptians. Such as have been preserved in the British museum, London, are of extreme beauty. Some are of blue porcelain with a band of not more than one-eighth of an inch in thickness, yet small as they are they bear two impressions.

From Egypt and the East rings were introduced to Greece, where they were worn by all free men as insignia of office or for ornament. From the Greeks the Romans adopted the custom, but by them rings were worn more as luxuries, and became very common. To so great an excess did the Romans carry this practice that they had summer rings and winter rings, the former being heavier and thicker than the latter. Roman gems were sought and highly valued for mystic virtues attributed to them.

One of the most remarkable discoveries of recent years is the radioactive metal, uranium, which gradually changes into lead, says London Tit-Bits. The rate at which this process is carried out is well known, and it is invariable. By taking rocks which contain both uranium and lead and finding the proportion of each metal now existing in them, the length of time necessary to bring about the present state of affairs is not difficult to calculate. Such a calculation shows that the earth must have been solid not far short of two thousand million years ago.

The paths of the earth around the sun and the moon around the earth are not what they were originally. Science can reconstruct them and discover the time needed to give them their present shapes.

All of these methods show that the age of the earth must be more than one thousand million years and less than four thousand million years. We shall, then, not be far wrong if we fix the earth's birthday at about two thousand million years ago.

stood as the cutter was swung into the slip.

With the welcoming escort, the party was brought ashore, while a crowd which filled the Battery Park cheered, bands played and the blizzard of ticker tape, which is always New York's welcome to its distinguished guests, began falling into Broadway's canyons from Whitehall to Park Place.

A parade formed. The police and an escort rode ahead. The Richmond Blues, in their brilliant uniforms, marched. Bands played.

Byrd himself was a decided contrast to his pilot. He conversed in short sentences. At times he seemed just a little stern. Always he was the admiral, a man of dignity, a gentleman—a Byrd of Virginia.

It was the noon hour by the time the procession had penetrated the clouds of ticker tape and reached its haven at the City Hall.

There Mayor James J. Walker was waiting at a columned platform erected on the steps of the century old structure. In the park, the grandstands, gay with bunting and the two-starred admiral's flag, were filled with people.

"In the next three months," said Walker to Byrd, "I imagine every scientist in the country will tell you just what you did down there at the south pole."

"I don't want to tell you that. I want to tell you how glad we are that you are home. Twice before we have welcomed you here and we thought we had done it well. But today we are glad that we are outdoing all previous welcomes."

Walker praised the courage of Byrd and his men and then pronounced Byrd's greatest accomplishment—the fact that he took his expedition for two years through hazardous lands, seas and air and brought back every man not only well but in even better health than when they left.

Byrd next took his place at the speakers' stand, looked out over the crowd, and standing stiffly began speaking.

"I stand here to respond to your welcome as spokesman for the 70 odd members of this expedition," he said. "We give to you and the citizens of New York sincere gratitude for this heart-warming welcome."

"First, citizens of New York made possible this expedition by their generous support. Then, two years ago this summer you saw us off to the bottom of the world with your good wishes. All during our stay and especially during the long winter nights you encouraged us by means of radio with entertainments and friendly messages. In the latter your chief executive took the lead."

"I want to tell you why I am delighted that you are giving medals to every man on the expedition; that you are not forgetting anyone. For months we were without most of the things that make life here in civilization what it is."

"I don't mean that we endured great hardships. We did not suffer in this respect unduly. I refer to the absence of such things as trees, land, green fields, home life, moving things, noise of civilization; animal and bird life even was different; theatres and a thousand other things that make up our daily life."

"Our existence was simple and primitive and with such a life man judges the conduct of his companions according to an entirely new set of values. Such distinction as wealth, social standing, even education and past successes do not count, but what does count is how a man stands on his feet for the moment as a man and how well he does his job. For the less important jobs of civilization frequently become the most important down there."

Medals of the city of New York were then presented to each member of the expedition. The clear soprano of a soloist reached far over the crowd in the strains of the Star Spangled Banner while Byrd and his men and the military units stood at attention and the crowd uncovered.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Economy Drug Co., Johnson's Pharmacy, advt.

"Do you burn the midnight oil in your economic studies?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "I apologize for a thoughtless question. Of course, you use the electric light."

Quick Pile Relief

No Salves or Cutting

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds, because it removes this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts.

HEM-ROID tablets are sold by druggists everywhere, have such a wonderful record for quick and lasting relief, that H. P. Dunn and Johnson's Pharmacy always sell them with guarantee of money-back if they do not end all Pile suffering.

BUTLERS RESUME HOTEL OPERATION

Ernest and Harry Butler Take Over
Lease of Ransford Hotel
R. R. Ferrand

Purchase All Hotel Equipment; to Carry Out Ideas in Hostelry
Gained by Travel

Ernest and Harry Butler, former operators of the Hotel Ransford, who sold their interests here two years ago resumed operation of the hotel here today.

The brothers have taken over the lease of the hotel from R. R. Ferrand, Des Moines, Ia., who operated the hotel for the past two years. The length of time remaining of the lease taken by Mr. Ferrand from Herschel Hardy, owner of the hotel, is 15 years.

Mr. Ferrand sold his interests here that he might devote more time to his hotel in Iowa.

Messrs. Butler operated the Hotel Ransford for ten years, leaving Brainerd two years ago on an extensive travel inspecting hotels from the east to the west coast.

"We are mighty glad to return to Brainerd and reopen in business here. We find that Brainerd is as ideally located as one can wish for," they concurred in. "We intend to carry out many ideas we gained on our visits to various hotels in the operation of the Ransford. We will do our best to operate a first class hotel and a first class dining room."

The operators announced the securing of the services of Mrs. C. Franz of Omaha, Neb., as chef, Mrs. Franz having had experience in various hotels in the country. Additional improvements to the hotel are planned after the summer season, the operators announced.

O-O

God gives us hardships to keep us from growing soft.

The iron that keeps its temper can become watch springs.

Money is a dangerous tool only in the hands of a fool.

Blessed is the man who does not look upon his neighbor's luxuries as his own necessities.

The Bed in History

Generally speaking, the biggest beds were made in England during the Elizabethan period, when carved oak was favored, and some of the structures were immense. In France and Italy walnut was the preferred material until the Empire period, when mahogany beds came into use. Iron beds were first used in the Eighteenth century.

First Requisite

Without strong affection, and humanity of heart, and gratitude to that Being whose code is mercy, and whose great attribute is benevolence to all things that breathe, true happiness can never be attained.—Dickens.

African "Monkey Bread"

Monkey bread is also known as baobab, adansonia and digitata. It comes from Africa, and grows on trees that usually stand from 40 to 70 feet high. Monkey bread is an oblong, woody fruit, growing from 8 inches to 18 inches in length. The juice is considered to have some medicinal properties, and is used in treating tropical fever. The ashes and bark are frequently boiled in rancid oil and used as a kind of soap by the natives.

Rule for Reason

There is no discharge for us from the moment we are born. Proceed with steady step, and if you would have all things under your control, put yourself under the control of reason; if reason becomes your ruler, you will become ruler over many.—Seneca.

Men's Ideas

I would wish . . . to look with a large forgiveness at men's ideas and prejudices, which are by no means the outcome of malevolence, but depend on their education, their social status, even their professions.—Joseph Conrad.

Speed Limit in India

On a 50-mile road in India a motorist is given a timed strip and is forbidden to complete the journey in less than four hours.

Improved Lamp

The betty lamp gets its name from the German "besser," meaning better. The betty lamp was covered, while the lamp it displaced was open.

BUTLERS RESUME HOTEL OPERATION

Ernest and Harry Butler Take Over Lease of Ransford Hotel From
R. R. Ferrand

Carry Out Ideas in Hospitality
Gained by Travel

Ernest and Harry Butler, former operators of the Hotel Ransford, who sold their interests here two years ago resumed operation of the hotel here today.

The brothers have taken over the lease of the hotel from R. R. Ferrand, Des Moines, Ia., who operated the hotel for the past two years. The length of time remaining of the lease taken by Mr. Ferrand from Herschel Hardy, owner of the hotel, is 15 years.

Purchase of all the hotel equipment is also part of the transaction.

Mr. Ferrand sold his interests here that he might devote more time to his hotels in Iowa.

Messrs. Butler operated the Hotel Ransford for ten years, leaving Brainerd two years ago on an extensive travel inspecting hotels from the east to the west coast.

"We are mighty glad to return to Brainerd and reopen in business here. We find that Brainerd is as ideally located as one can wish for," they concurred in. "We intend to carry out many ideas we gained on our visits to various hotels in the operation of the Ransford. We will do our best to operate a first class hotel and a first class dining room."

The operators announced the securing of the services of Mrs. C. Franz of Omaha, Neb., as chef, Mrs. Franz

having had experience in various hotels in the country.

Additional improvements to the hotel are planned after the summer season, the operators announced.

The Bed in History

Generally speaking, the biggest beds were made in England during the Elizabethan period, when carved oak was favored, and some of the structures were immense. In France and Italy walnut was the preferred material until the Empire period, when mahogany beds came into use. Iron beds were first used in the Eighteenth century.

African "Monkey Bread"

Monkey bread is also known as baobab, adansonia and digitata. It comes from Africa, and grows on trees that usually stand from 40 to 70 feet high. Monkey bread is an oblong, woody fruit, growing from 8 inches to 18 inches in length. The juice is considered to have some medicinal properties, and is used in treating tropical fever. The ashes and bark are frequently boiled in rancid oil and used as a kind of soap by the natives.

JUDGE M. E. RYAN ADDRESSES ROTARY

Jurist Tells of Experiences in Court Practice Extending Over 30 Years

TOURISTS COMING TO CITY

Visitors Express Their Pleasure at Again Being in the Lake Country Near Brainerd

Judge M. E. Ryan of the district court was the speaker at the Rotary club meeting and told of experiences in his 30 years of court practice. There is oftentimes the tragic element in court cases and again the humorous, said the judge. A case which attracted much interest was that of a recent breach of promise suit where a 65 year old flapper sued a 73 year old sheik, and some of the testimony was humorous.

The law makes it a crime to cut timber on land where the state has a tax lien. An old man in a northern county was cited to court for cutting wood on such tax lien ground and his plea was that he cut the wood to pay his taxes. Judge Ryan imposed a short sentence and then suspended it. He knew if the man were fined, then the latter's only recourse was to go back to the land and endeavor to cut timber to pay his fine.

"You Rotarians serving as jurors sometimes do not appreciate the position. The jurors are important factors and frequently more so than the judge. The high court passes on the judge's decision. But if a jury makes a mistake it is a most difficult matter to correct," said Judge Ryan.

"The court erier announces the opening of court. Many think this announcement is in honor or in deference to the judge. The court is made up of the judge, jury, bailiff, clerk, attorneys. The court is the important judicial branch of the government. When the court opens, the erier's announcement calls attention to this important branch, an institution, a part of our government," said Judge Ryan.

Visitors from the lakes were present. Rotarians from many states including Fred Durland and Fred Boone and they all expressed their pleasure in being back in the lake country.

Superintendent of Schools, W. J. Cobb introduced Thomas O'Neil of Duluth, an applicant for the position of coach in Brainerd schools.

INDIAN'S MURDER TRIAL NEAR CLOSE

Hanks Pleads Self Defense; Tells Story of Triple Killing at Mille Laes

EXPLAINS CONFESSION

Case to Reach Jury in Duluth Court Late Today or Tomorrow

His halting story of the death of his wife, his infant stepson and his wife's aged grandfather was told today by William Taylor Hanks, Mille Laes reservation Indian, who took the stand today in his defense on a murder charge.

Hanks, who once attended the Carlisle Indian school faces hanging if he is convicted of the triple murder by the jury of three women and nine men who are hearing the case in federal district court at Duluth. Hanks is being defended by Attorney Hilding Swanson of Brainerd.

Charged with the three slayings, Hanks on the witness stand pleaded self defense and declared that the killings were committed in a general melee in which he sought to protect the lives of his stepson and his aged grandfather from his wife.

The case was expected to reach the jury late today or tomorrow. Hanks is being tried under federal statutes which provide hanging as the extreme penalty for murder. If convicted and sentenced to death by hanging Hanks would be the first man to suffer the extreme penalty in Minnesota in 20 years.

Hanks said he first knew that Shaugobay and the baby were killed when told by officers who came to arrest him. He said Sheriff Luchshinger of Mille Laes asked him "300 times" if he had killed Shaugobay and he finally admitted the killing, testifying the sheriff "told me to say I killed him." The sheriff, Hanks testified, said the punishment would be the same if "I had killed one or a dozen people."

Hanks related in detail how he had killed his wife after she had threatened to kill him.

Earlier, Hanks testified that his wife had shot at him and he had gone to a neighbor's home. His coat and cap, which he said bore powder marks from the charge of the gun by his wife, were submitted as exhibits.

Tells of Drinking

Hanks testified his wife was angry at Shaugobay because he had failed to bequeath her all his property, leaving her only half. Hanks said his wife had a vicious temper. He declared he and his wife were drinking beer the day of the killings.

Progression

"At twenty years of age, the will reigns; at thirty, the wit; at forty, the judgement," said Benjamin Franklin. And he might have added: "At forty-five, the wife."—Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

MRS. ORNE TELLS TROUBLES TO COURT

Divorce Action Brought on Grounds of Cruelty; Case Opens in District Court

A story of marital unhappiness came falteringly from the lips of Addie May Orne, plaintiff in a divorce action against W. S. Orne which opened in district court before Judge B. F. Wright this afternoon.

Mr. Orne is contesting the action and is represented by Attorney C. A. Ryan.

Mrs. Orne brings action on the grounds of cruelty. In her story under direct examination she testified of leaving her husband on two occasions and of leaving him the third time and bringing suit for divorce.

She said that their unhappiness started in 1922 when without apparent provocation her husband suggested she get a divorce and that he would give her $500 and their Ford car.

Explaining her reaction to such a statement, Mrs. Orne said she told her husband that to divorce him had never entered her mind.

She said that they had lived happily throughout the years with the exception of times her husband had "spells." As told by Mrs. Orne, her husband had during his "spells" threatened her life, accused her of affection for others, had ordered their daughter out of the home because her child coughed of not allowing letters from her children to come to her, of using obscene language to her and during one occasion nearly choking her.

Cross examination of Mrs. Orne by Attorney Ryan started at 3:30 p. m. today. He asked her if it was not true that Mr. Orne was given a hearing for insanity in 1927 and that he was discharged. She replied that it was true.

Mrs. Orne answered on questioning that Mr. Orne had been doctoring for the past 35 years but had not been on a strict diet for ten years.

His halting story of the death of his wife, his infant stepson and his wife's aged grandfather was told today by William Taylor Hanks, Mille Laes reservation Indian, who took the stand today in his defense on a murder charge.

Hanks, who once attended the Carlisle Indian school faces hanging if he is convicted of the triple murder by the jury of three women and nine men who are hearing the case in federal district court at Duluth. Hanks is being defended by Attorney Hilding Swanson of Brainerd.

Charged with the three slayings, Hanks on the witness stand pleaded self defense and declared that the killings were committed in a general melee in which he sought to protect the lives of his stepson and his aged grandfather from his wife.

The case was expected to reach the jury late today or tomorrow.

Hanks is being tried under federal statutes which provide hanging as the extreme penalty for murder. If convicted and sentenced to death by hanging Hanks would be the first man to suffer the extreme penalty in Minnesota in 20 years.

Hanks said he first knew that Shaugobay and the baby were killed when told by officers who came to arrest him. He said Sheriff Luchinsinger of Mille Laes asked him "100 times" if he had killed Shaugobay and he finally admitted the killing, testifying the sheriff "told me to say I killed him." The sheriff, Hanks testified, said the punishment would be the same if "I had killed one or a dozen people."

Hanks related in detail how he had killed his wife after she had threatened to kill him.

Earlier, Hanks testified that his wife had shot at him and he had gone to a neighbor's home. His coat and cap, which he said bore powder marks from the charge of the gun by his wife, were submitted as exhibits.

Tells of Drinking

Hanks testified his wife was angry at Shaugobay because he had failed to bequeath her all his property, leaving her only half. Hanks said his wife had a vicious temper. He declared he and his wife were drinking beer the day of the killings.

Progression

"At twenty years of age, the will reigns; at thirty, the wit; at forty, the judgement," said Benjamin Franklin. And he might have added: "At forty-five, the wife."—Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

MRS. ORNE TELLS TROUBLES TO COURT

A story of marital unhappiness came falteringly from the lips of Addie May Orne, plaintiff in a divorce action against W. S. Orne which opened in district court before Judge B. F. Wright this afternoon.

Preliminary examination of the witness by her attorney, Arthur J. Sullivan, recalled her marriage in Duluth in 1892 and a record of children now grown to manhood and womanhood.

Mr. Orne is contesting the action and is represented by Attorney C. A. Ryan.

Mrs. Orne brings action on the grounds of cruelty. In her story under direct examination she testified of leaving her husband on two occasions and of leaving him the third time and bringing suit for divorce.

She said that their unhappiness started in 1922 when without apparent provocation her husband suggested she get a divorce and that he would give her $500 and their Ford car.

Explaining her reaction to such a statement, Mrs. Orne said she told her husband that to divorce him had never entered her mind.

As told by Mrs. Orne, her husband had during his "spells" threatened her life, accused her of infidelity for others, had ordered their daughter out of the home because her child coughed of not allowing letters from her children to come to her, of using obscene language to her and during one occasion nearly choking her.

Cross examination of Mrs. Orne by Attorney Ryan started at 3:30 p. m. today. He asked her if it was not true that Mr. Orne was given a hearing for insanity in 1927 and that he was discharged. She replied that it was true.

Be moderate — be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

*In the U. S. Public Health Reports of 1923, Volume 38, Page 1271, we find the following: "Among short men less than 5 feet 7 inches in height an excess (in weight) of 20% involves an added mortality of 30% above normal. A 40% excess adds 80% to the mortality." We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Ireland's Early History

Ireland was invaded by the Goldels, speaking the Celtic language, in about 900 or 500 B. C. Between 300 and 150 B. C. various tribes invaded the country, including the Belgae and the Brythons. In Caesar's time these two tribes inhabited both Britain and Ireland. There were also the Iberians or Iberians, which originally occupied the whole of the islands, but had been driven westward by the Goldels.

"Tree-Planting Mr. Adams"

The American Forestry association says that John Quincy Adams, sixth President, was given this nickname because he urged the planting of forests in order to grow naval supplies. In 1828 what might be called the first forest experiment station in America was established and acorns of live oaks were planted.

Carbon Paper Old Idea

Carbon paper consists of tissue of varying weight coated with a color, generally carbon, and some waxy medium. It has been known and in use for a considerable period. It is mentioned in the Mechanics Magazine in England as early as 1824.

Dangerous Imitation

Parsnips are not poisonous. Occasionally cattle, or even humans, mistake water hemlock for parsnips, and when the water hemlock is eaten it frequently causes serious stomach disorders.

Ireland's Early History

Ireland was invaded by the Golds, speaking the Celtic language, in about 600 or 500 B. C. Between 300 and 150 B. C. various tribes invaded the country, including the Belgae and the Brythons. In Caesar's time these two tribes inhabited both Britain and Ireland. There were also the Iberians or Hibernians, which originally occupied the whole of the islands, but had been driven westward by the Golds.

"Tree-Planting Mr. Adams"

The American Forestry association says that John Quincy Adams, sixth President, was given this nickname because he urged the planting of forests in order to grow naval supplies. In 1828 what might be called the first forest experiment station in America was established and acorns of live oaks were planted.

U. S. DESTROYER PICKS UP FISHING BOAT'S CREW

BEEN SUNK

DISCLOSED BY DESTROYER
FATE OF THE SCHOONER NOT IN MESSAGES

Gloucester, Mass., June 19.—(AP) — The United States destroyer Wilkes reported by radio here today that it had picked up the crew of the two-masted Gloucester fishing schooner Flora L. Oliver.

The fate of the schooner was not disclosed but locally it was feared the craft, veteran of many expeditions to the Georges Banks, had either exploded or been rammed and sunk.

The Oliver, captained by Charles Williams, who was making his first trip as skipper, left Gloucester four days ago for the Georges with a crew of ten men aboard. Whether the destroyer has picked up all or only part of the crew was not known. The destroyer was scheduled to reach here at 2:30 P. M. EDT.

Before Williams took command of the Oliver, the schooner was captained by Clayton Morrissey, who was skipper of the schooner, Henry Ford in the international fishermen's races three years ago.

Discussing business conditions with several of the leading clothing manufacturers in the northwest and including on his trip mills in the Twin Cities and Duluth, S. R. Hickerson, president of the Hickerson and Company, garment manufacturers, reported on his return to Brainerd last evening that a general trend upward is noticeable in business throughout the northwest.

"All manufacturers were of the opinion that future prospects are bright," Mr. Hickerson said.

"SHEIK'S WIFE" BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER LIII.

IN the end he said he would finish the picture from memory, packed his things, wrapped up the canvas.

"But must you go, cherie?"

"Sorry—promised to stop by the club for Eve. Sure you won't come?"

Her shoulders accomplished one of her graceful shrugs and she smiled with just a touch of scorn.

"What is there so attractive at the club my dear? Children playing at life, making noise . . . Here there is room for the soul, peace for the thought. . . ."

Ken shuffled his feet, glanced toward the door. He was hot and uncomfortable, untouched by the subtle invitation of her. He did not ask himself why. He could not have answered the question anyway, but had he tried he probably would have explained that their work together was finished. All he knew was that he wished to be away and she kept holding him, asking useless questions.

Perhaps Lilas read his mind. "Well, if you must—"

"I'm sorry, Li." Ken forced enthusiasm into his tone. "Be back soon? Week or so?"

"A month at least."

"Oh—too bad—"

So close to him now—so close that the strangely subtle perfume she used wrapped him like a cloud, stirred his senses. Her hand was upon his arm, the beautiful provocative face raised.

Ken had kissed Lilas at various times. He never had intended to kiss her—or any woman save his wife for the matter of that. But those things happened; a fellow wasn't to blame for such impulses. She meant him to kiss her now; she had asked him not to go to the party—to remain here with her. Perhaps.

He saw the too red lips, the yellow-green eyes . . . Strange he'd never noticed before that Lilas had cat's eyes. Sly and cold for all the fire they held.

Only when he was in the car, driving like mad, did he realize that she had not answered. He snatched a handkerchief, wiped a band of perspiration from his forehead.

What were they all looking at him for? Elma kept staring with half a smile and even Chuck seemed queer. Acted as if he were making an effort to be natural . . . Chatter going on at a great rate and stopping suddenly when he came where it was . . . What the devil?

"What's in the air?" Ken demanded of Hank Washburn, a new member of the tribe. But Washburn looked unhappy and denied all knowledge of anything unusual. And eventually Ken, feeling more than ever that life had taken a new and peculiar slant, started for home.

He saw the bulletin board on his way out—stood before it admiringly. Pretty decent of Nory to give Eve credit for her work; the poor kid had put in a lot of time on the book, now that he happened to remember. Of course it was just a gesture, but nifty for all that. Regular guy, Nory . . .

Nobody at home and this amazed him. They said Eve had left a half-hour before he got to the club—that would have been about eleven-thirty. Now it was nearly one . . .

He sat down to wait. When a half hour had gone he became angry. Lord, didn't a girl expect to be home at all? A man getting all tired and down-hearted needed his wife! What kind of a deal was this anyway?

But another half-hour changed this; Ken grew alarmed. An accident—a holdup—anything might have happened. Not Eve's way after all, staying out all hours, night-riding around when she knew he would be looking for her.

He was about to telephone Haverford—the police station, the hospital—when they came. Insouciant, laughing, unconcerned about him and any anxiety he might have felt.

"Hello, old lamb." This from Eve, who fumbled her things on the table, turned to Nory giggling. "Never say opportunity knocks but once. And the second knock is Why his publications were the source of Ken's income now that he had let "Artistry" slip away because of the sketches. And he had been too busy with Lilas to do any free lance work. He might have to wait some time for such another good connection and she knew he hadn't saved a cent.

She wanted to put her arm around him, to murmur, "Never mind, dear—we'll be all right—you're too good to be bothered—"

But the memory of all that had happened was a knife in her spirit. She forced back her sympathy made her tone casual. "Too bad, Ken."

"Too bad! My lord, don't you CARE?"

He said He Would

more exciting than the first, I'll inform a wet world. You're a great little mechanic, you are."

Ken was angry again. "Where have you been? Don't you know it's after two?"

"And how?" Nory explained, grinning at Eve, "Been sitting on top of St. John mountain mostly. Engine sank into a coma up there which only time could heal. Hope you haven't been concerned?"

"Of course I've been concerned! When your wife says she expects you at a dance—"

"But I didn't expect you, sweet Ken. You said early, didn't you? And we waited and waited plenty. Finally figured lovely Li had exerted her siren lure and struck out for ourselves. Course if you'd come when you said—"

They had him there. Still Eve needn't have run out on him . . . Ken lapsed into an aggrieved silence and Eve scurried a lunch upon the table and she and Nory talked gaily while they ate. And when Nory had gone she stretched her arms and went off to bed in the guest chamber, leaving Ken to sulk by himself.

He was too busy the next few days to pay much attention to his wife. An endless amount of work on the final picture of the Lilas series, and when he had gone over and over it, doing many times what should have come easily, he still felt dissatisfied. And his estimate was confirmed by Wade's dubious silence.

He came back to Eve late that night looking drawn and shaken. "Wade wouldn't renew my contract, Eve. Didn't realize it was coming up now—but no use thinking of that. He said they'd have to consider. Means 'no' for him."

Her face was down, so he did not see the consternation—and the sympathy—in her eyes. Wade

"Of course I do. But you said for me to keep my hands off."

He gave her a stare of white, hurt amazement—flung out of the room and into his studio, banging the door.

The strangeness that began to bother Kenneth the night of the April fool party settled about him like a fog. Life was a topsy-turvy thing. All at ends—all out of hand, like a car with the steering gone wrong. What the dickens—oh, what the dickens? Why couldn't he get hold of it again? What was the matter with everybody?

What was the matter with Eve? He brooded over Barton Wade's treachery. Wade had said that Ken was becoming far too temperamental; he was quite undependable.

"We're a business house, Wilmer, not a nursery. Plenty of leeway for unavoidable delays, but you've taken unfair advantage. You know it's not right."

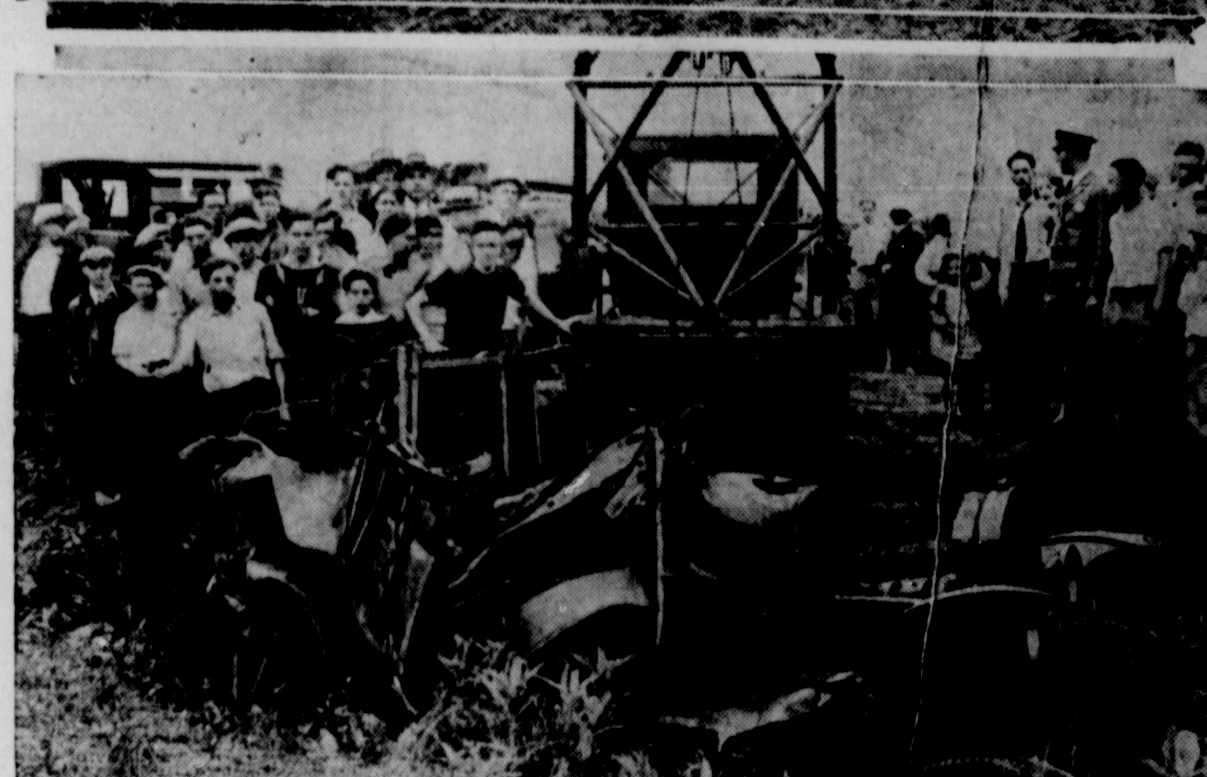

"Then the matter of those sketches. We've a right to say what we'll buy. What's wrong with you, boy? You've not been yourself. Better talk with that little wife of yours—a clever girl. Come and see us afterward."

Ken had stalked out in a rage. As if he had to run and ask some woman! He'd show them—he'd sure show them what was what!

But he had gone home to his wife, Eve, who always had been so full of concern for him, careful of his slightest interest. And she had passed things over with hardly a word—she had made it plain enough that she cared not at all . . . And this was the most incomprehensible part of the strangeness of life—that Eve did not care . . .

U. S. DESTROYER PICKS UP FISHING BOAT'S CREW

CRAFT, VETERAN OF MANY EXPEDITIONS, MAY HAVE BEEN SUNK

DISCLOSED BY DESTROYER FATE OF THE SCHOONER NOT IN MESSAGES

Gloucester, Mass., June 19.—(U.P.)—The United States destroyer Wilkes reported by radio here today that it had picked up the crew of the two-masted Gloucester fishing schooner Flora L. Oliver.

The fate of the schooner was not disclosed but locally it was feared the craft, veteran of many expeditions to the Georges Banks, had either exploded or been rammed and sunk.

The Oliver, captained by Charles Williams, who was making his first trip as skipper, left Gloucester four days ago for the Georges with a crew of ten men aboard. Whether the destroyer has picked up all or only part of the crew was not known. The destroyer was scheduled to reach here at 2:30 P. M. EDT.

Before Williams took command of the Oliver, the schooner was captained by Clayton Morrissey, who was skipper of the schooner Henry Ford in the international fishermen's races three years ago.

"SHEIK'S WIFE" BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER LIII.

IN the end he said he would finish the picture from memory, packed his things, wrapped up the canvas.

"But must you go, cherie?"

"Sorry—promised to stop by the club for Eve. Sure you won't come?"

Her shoulders accomplished one of her graceful shrugs and she smiled with just a touch of scorn.

"What is there so attractive at the club my dear? Children playing at life, making noise . . .

Here there is room for the soul, peace for the thought . . .

Ken shuffled his feet, glanced toward the door. He was hot and uncomfortable, untouched by the subtle invitation of her. He did not ask himself why. He could not have answered the question anyway, but had he tried he probably would have explained that their work together was finished. All he knew was that he wished to be away and she kept holding him, asking useless questions.

Perhaps Lilas read his mind. "Well, if you must—"

"A month at least."

"Oh—too bad—"

She came close to him now—so close that the strangely subtle perfume she used wrapped him like a cloud, stirred his senses. Her hand was upon his arm, the beautiful provocative face raised.

Ken had kissed Lilas at various times. He never had intended to kiss her—or any woman save his wife for the matter of that. But those things happened; a fellow wasn't to blame for such impulses. She meant him to kiss her now; she had asked him not to go to the party—to remain here with her. Perhaps . . .

He saw the too red lips, the yellow-green eyes. Strange he'd never noticed before that Lilas had cat's eyes. Sly and cold for all the fire they held.

Only when he was in the car, driving like mad, did he realize that she had not answered. He snatched a handkerchief, wiped a band of perspiration from his forehead.

What were they all looking at him for? Elma kept staring with half a smile and even Chuck seemed queer. Acted as if he were making an effort to be natural . . . Chatter going on at a great rate and stopping suddenly when he came where it was . . . What the devil?

"What's in the air?" Ken demanded of Hank Washburn, a new member of the tribe. But Washburn looked unhappy and denied all knowledge of anything unusual. And eventually Ken, feeling more than ever that life had taken a new and peculiar slant, started for home.

ATHLETIC BODY TAKES UP SCHMELING FIGHT

TO RULE ON AWARDING HIM HEAVIES' TITLE

SEPTEMBER

New York, June 19.—(U.P.)—Max Schmeling today was recognized by the New York state athletic commission as world's heavyweight boxing champion.

The vote was 2 to 1. William A. Muldoon, one of the commissioners, objected to recognizing Schmeling but he was overruled by Commissioners James A. Farley and John J. Phelan.

Farley, chairman of the commission, said that while he felt he must vote for Schmeling, neither he nor the public had accepted the German as the champion solely on the basis of the foul-ending bout with Jack Sharkey. Farley suggested Schmeling and Sharkey meet again this summer. Sharkey made public a statement offering to fight Schmeling on any terms.

By DIXON STEWART

New York, June 19.—The New York state athletic commission met today to consider the fiasco which resulted from the waiving of its regulation concerning fouls in the Schmeling-Sharkey championship bout.

Ostensibly the board is meeting to consider Max Schmeling's foul victory and to rule on awarding him the title, but the principal business is expected to be an attempt to force a re-match under Madison Square Garden promotion in September.

William Muldoon, sponsor of the recent elimination series, has gone on record as favoring another meeting between Sharkey and Schmeling. Jas. A. Farley, chairman of the board, intimated that he considered Schmeling entitled to the championship. General John J. Phelan, third member of the commission, supported Farley's view.

Jack Sharkey attended the meeting to request that the commission refuse Schmeling the championship unless Max agrees to an early return bout. Sharkey based his plea on the contention that New York rules call for a majority decision by the three officials on fouls. In the Sharkey-Schmeling bout, both Referee Crowley and Judge Mathison said they did not see the foul blow, and the decision was given on the judgment of Judge Barnes.

ATHLETES SECURED IN RECENT

PATCHED UP INJURED PLAYERS
LINE-UPS

(By United Press)
Eight of the sixteen major league baseball clubs today were counting upon the return of injured players and the addition of athletes secured in recent trades to provide strength for the second half of the 1930 pennant race.

Injuries have handicapped many teams during the early part of the season but most of the stars were expected to be back in uniform before the halfway mark is reached, July 4.

Al Simmons, Philadelphia outfielder, got back in the game yesterday and helped the Athletics defeat Cleveland, 7 to 2. The victory increased Philadelphia's American League lead to 1½ games and dropped the Indians from second to fourth place.

Pittsburgh lost a 4 to 3 decision to New York in the only other scheduled game, but the Pirates took renewed hope in the news that Lloyd Waner had been discharged from the hospital and soon will be ready to play.

The Giants won the game with a 3-run attack in the seventh but it took an unassisted double play by Hughie Critz to check a Pirate rally in the ninth.

Brooklyn's Robins, National League leaders, opened their western invasion today encouraged by the prospect of Shortstop Glenn Wright returning to the line-up. Wright, "Sparkplug" of the club, has been on the bench for the past ten days.

Other National League stars slated for early return include Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs and Frankie Frisch. Ernest Orsatti and Chick Hafey of the Cardinals. Hornsby was expected to be out for the season with a fractured ankle but now hopes to be ready to play next month.

The Cardinals also count on Burleigh Grimes to add their pennant fight.

The Brainerd Board of Education will have a varied group of applicants from which to select a coach to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Coach Warren E. Kasch of the Brainerd high school who has accepted the position of coach at the St. Cloud Tech-High.

Among the applications already received are those from Simpson of Crookston, Claude Miller of Valley City, Thomas O'Neil of Duluth and Taylor of the University of Oklahoma. The selection may be made at a board meeting in July.

Fading Frowns
A downtown hotel has a sign on the assistant manager's desk—where all guests rush up with their complaints—and it has worked splendidly. The sign says, "Nothing is half as important as you think it is." The rate guest who waits for a chance to scream about missing baggage or noise across the hall stands and stares at the sign and the assistant manager says he can stand at one side and watch the frown fade.—Detroit News.

Don't make YOUR ENGINE FIGHT HARMFUL GUM

If you want a fast, clean, smooth engine—don't make it fight harmful gum.

Use Koolmotor Gasolene—a powerful, clean burning motor fuel from which harmful gum has been removed.

Inferior or carelessly refined gasolenes deposit a sticky, gummy substance on your valves. When you step on the gas for more power, your valves have to fight to get free—your engine labors—valuable compression is lost.

Through extra refining and rigid supervision—known as the Cities Service mini-gum process—the gum content in Koolmotor gasolene has been reduced to a harmless minimum. Valves are kept clean—power kept at its maximum—your engine responds promptly to your desire when you use Koolmotor—the original high test, anti-knock green gas.

Don't pay the impending penalty of gum in gasolene. Keep your tank full of Koolmotor Gasolene. The nearest Cities Service station or dealer is waiting to serve you.

ATHLETIC BODY TAKES UP SCHMELING FIGHT

New York, June 19.—(U.S.)—Max Schmeling today was recognized by the New York state athletic commission as world's heavyweight boxing champion.

The vote was 2 to 1.

William A. Muldoon, one of the commissioners, objected to recognizing Schmeling but he was overruled by Commissioners James A. Farley and John J. Phelan.

Farley, chairman of the commission, said that while he felt he must vote for Schmeling, neither he nor the public had accepted the German as the champion solely on the basis of the foul-ending bout with Jack Sharkey.

Farley suggested Schmeling and Sharkey meet again this summer. Sharkey made public a statement offering to fight Schmeling on any terms.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 19.—The New York state athletic commission met today to consider the fiasco which resulted from the waiving of its regulation concerning fouls in the Schmeling-Sharkey championship bout.

Ostensibly the board is meeting to consider Max Schmeling's foul victory and to rule on awarding him the title, but the principal business is expected to be an attempt to force a re-match under Madison Square Garden promotion in September.

William Muldoon, sponsor of the recent elimination series, has gone on record as favoring another meeting between Sharkey and Schmeling. Jas. A. Farley, chairman of the board, intimated that he considered Schmeling entitled to the championship. General John J. Phelan, third member of the commission, supported Farley's view.

Jack Sharkey attended the meeting to request that the commission refuse Schmeling the championship unless Max agrees to an early return bout. Sharkey based his plea on the contention that New York rules call for a majority decision by the three officials on fouls. In the Sharkey-Schmeling bout, both Referee Crowley and Judge Mathison said they did not see the foul blow, and the decision was given on the judgment of Judge Barnes.

NEW BLOOD TO AID MANY OF BALL CLUBS

LINE-UPS

(By United Press)

Eight of the sixteen major league baseball clubs today were counting upon the return of injured players and the addition of athletes secured in recent trades to provide strength for the second half of the 1930 pennant race.

Injuries have handicapped many teams during the early part of the season but most of the stars were expected to be back in uniform before the halfway mark is reached, July 4. Al Simmons, Philadelphia outfielder, got back in the game yesterday and helped the Athletics defeat Cleveland, 7 to 2. The victory increased Philadelphia's American League lead to 1½ games and dropped the Indians from second to fourth place.

Pittsburgh lost a 4 to 3 decision to New York in the only other scheduled game, but the Pirates took renewed hope in the news that Lloyd Waner had been discharged from the hospital and soon will be ready to play.

The Giants won the game with a 3-run attack in the seventh but it took an unassisted double play by Hughie Critz to check a Pirate rally in the ninth.

Brooklyn's Robins, National League leaders, opened their western invasion today encouraged by the prospect of Shortstop Glenn Wright returning to the line-up. Wright, "Sparkplug" of the club, has been on the bench for the past ten days.

Other National League stars slated for early return include Rogers Hornsby of the Cubs and Frankie Frisch, Ernest Orsatti and Chick Hafey of the Cardinals. Hornsby was expected to be out for the season with a fractured ankle but now hopes to be ready to play next month.

The Cardinals also count on Burleigh Grimes to aid their pennant fight.

FOUR AFTER COACH POSITION AT HIGH

FOR SUCCESSOR TO
WARREN E. KASCH

The Brainerd Board of Education will have a varied group of applicants from which to select a coach to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Coach Warren E. Kasch of the Brainerd high school who has accepted the position of coach at the St. Cloud Tech-High.

Among the applications already received are those from Simpson of Crookston, Claude Miller of Valley City, Thomas O'Neil of Duluth and Taylor of the University of Oklahoma. The selection may be made at a board meeting in July.

Fading Frowns

A downtown hotel has a sign on the assistant manager's desk—where all guests rush up with their complaints—and it has worked splendidly. The sign says, "Nothing is half as important as you think it is." The late guest who waits for a chance to scream about missing baggage or noise across the hall stands and stares at the sign and the assistant manager says he can stand at one side and watch the frown fade.—Detroit News.

Tire prices are down!

When rubber goes down, tire prices follow.

They're buying Goodyear Tires in greater volume than ever before.

a tire, Goodyears are definitely superior.

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

If you think these are merely advertising claims demand to see the proof.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

leave the factories on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more truck tonnage is hauled on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why, throughout the world, year after year, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

No mistake about it, this season is the chance of a lifetime to take full advantage of low tire prices and high Goodyear value.

Tom Hall, Evelyn Sabin, Dick McDonald and Dorothy Mills motored to Itasca park Sunday.

House to house demonstration will get underway by tomorrow, where and by which you can see for yourself what Ceco Weatherstrips will and can really do for you along the lines of added comforts the year round, plus the paying for themselves in a short time. We will greatly appreciate the time allowed us in a Free Demonstration in your home.

Tire prices are down!

— anyone can afford Goodyears this summer

When rubber goes down, tire prices follow.

Wise buyers are taking advantage of this situation — reaping the utmost in value.

a tire, Goodyears are definitely superior.

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

If you think these are merely advertising claims demand to see the proof.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

The facts certainly are: Goodyear Tires do give extra value.

leave the factories on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more truck tonnage is hauled on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why, throughout the world, year after year, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

No mistake about it, this season is the chance of a lifetime to take full advantage of low tire prices and high Goodyear value.

Therefore: now is the time to get yours!
